MURDER OF OKANAGAN GIRL CHARGED TO CHIEF WITNESS

Oysters Bountiful In Coming Years

Minister of Recreation Earle Westwood has a message for gourmets.

He says coastal waters this year are just the right temperature for the propagation of oysters and that in two or three years the oyster harvest in B.C. should hit an all-time peak.

Second Stroke?

Pope Gets Worse

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope Pius XII has suffered a serious relapse and close associates expressed grave fears today for his life.

Although there was no official confirmation, it was believed the Pope had suffered a second stroke.

Close associates made it clear the Pope was in an extremely grave condition.

RECURRED

The 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church had rallied earlier from a coma and partial paralysis that attended a stroke Monday, but other symptoms recurred.

Then late Tuesday night a Vatican official said flatly the pontiff's condition had taken a turn for the worse. Pressed to elaborate on the degree of worsening, he replied only: "I stick by what I said."

STILL AFFLICTED

A doctor close to the situation said the Pope was in worse condition than a medical bulletin issued at 6 p.m. had indicated. This source said the pontiff actually was still afflicted with partial paralysis that affected his upper body, face and speech.

But Professor Ermanno Mingazzini, one of four doctors attending the Pope, said his "psychic condition"—his intelligence, memory and perception—had been maintained and there was no paralysis.

LISTENED TO MUSIC

"He listened to some music after lunch, and drank something as well as taking some semi-liquid food."

Mingazzini added:

"We would have been much happier if he had not had the increase in temperature reported in the bulletin this evening."

Leading Mob

Women Wounded

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The Lebanese army yesterday used machine-gun and cannon fire against a defiant women-led mob defending barricades erected by anti-government Christian Phalangists on the main road from Beirut to Damascus.

Eight women were wounded when a machine-gunner on an armored car fired three short bursts at the feet of an advancing mob that had defied army orders to disperse. Immediately afterward, a short-fused round was fired from the cannon over the heads of the crowd, exploding harmlessly in the air.

21 WOUNDED

The shooting brought to a total of 21 the number of persons wounded in a day of mounting tensions and violence in Beirut, stemming from rightist opposition to the new government of Premier Rashid Karami.

Thirteen persons were wounded when a bus in the heart of the city was sprayed with tommy gun bullets as it passed the Christian sector. The Christian Phalangists disclaimed responsibility for the attack.

The pre-dawn stillness in Beirut was shattered by a series of bomb explosions that ripped open five shops.

Supporters of former president Camille Chamoun placed roadblocks on main highways leading out of Beirut to enforce a general strike, now in its 15th day, against the government led by Karami, former rebel leader in Tripoli.

Army troops tore down some of the barricades Monday, but demonstrators led by women set up new roadblocks of rubble, scrap iron and burning oil-soaked timbers and tires on the route to Damascus and on the main highway leading to Tripoli in the north.

Political Upheaval

Martial Law In Pakistan

KARACHI (AP) — In a major political upheaval, Pakistan's President Iskander Mirza Tuesday night dissolved the central and provincial governments, outlawed political parties and declared martial law.

The drastic seizure of power came after six ministers of the national government resigned and Premier Firoz Khan Noon turned their jobs over to other cabinet members.

Those who quit are members of the Awami League party. They said they feared the government would not hold Pakistan's first general elections as promised next Feb. 15, and they did not want to be connected with such a failure. Noon pledged the elections would take place as scheduled.

Mirza abolished the national and provincial assemblies and said the constitution of the republic has been abrogated.

Soon after the declaration of martial law troops of the Pakistan army went to Radio Pakistan, the chief railway station, city hall, and all offices of the central government and occupied them.

Orchard Owner Held by RCMP

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — Olin Leebrage, 53-year-old orchard owner, who was the principal witness at the inquest into the slaying of 26-year-old Anita Budde, a fruit picker, was charged with her murder Tuesday.

The young woman was beaten to death in an orchard cabin at Kaleden, near here, Aug. 3.

LeeBrage reported finding her body in the cabin Aug. 4, sparking one of the biggest manhunts in the history of British Columbia.

VISITED HIM OFTEN

RCMP announced the arrest of LeeBrage late Tuesday. He will appear in court here today at 10 a.m.

At the inquest LeeBrage said he was a close friend of the girl and had visited her cabin many times.

BLOOD-SPATTERED

Medical evidence showed that Miss Budde had been slain with a heavy, blunt instrument, suffering fatal head wounds. She was found on her bed in the blood-spattered cabin.

LeeBrage told the inquest jury he had warned a man to leave the cabin in the afternoon of Aug. 3. He said the man called himself John Morrison.

THREE DIED

Scores of police were called into the Kaleden district, 10 miles from here. They were joined by volunteers and tracking dogs and a plane entered the search.

Three RCMP officers were killed when a search plane crashed in forest-covered country during the hunt.

SHOT, WOUNDED

Police issued warrants for Morrison charging him with attempted murder. He was captured in Washington state some days later.

Morrison, alias Donald Stevens was shot and wounded as he fled from police.

STILL IN HOSPITAL

He now is in hospital at Tonasket, Wash., awaiting extradition.

He is charged with the attempted murder of Cpl. Ralph Brown, shot in the head while questioning the roadside suspect.

Logger Dies In Accident

PORT ALBERNI—Kenneth Joseph Gauthier, 24, Port Alberni logger, was fatally injured yesterday in an accident at the Sproat Lake division of MacMillan and Bloedel.

He died in West Coast General Hospital here about 12 hours after he was run over by a logging truck.

Gauthier was married, with two children.

U.K. Sells Two Subs To Israel

LONDON (UPI) — Britain will sell Israel two submarines to give the tiny state an undersea striking force for the first time, it was announced yesterday. The move apparently was aimed at countering the United Arab Republic's Soviet-supplied submarine fleet.

A foreign office announcement specified that the submarines, both small, would be used only in the Mediterranean.

Grave Diggers Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pickets marched outside the gates of two large cemeteries in suburban Burnaby Tuesday shortly after a strike was called by 36 grave diggers and other cemetery workers.

One hearse was allowed through the picket line for a burial service, but the mourners left their cars outside. The grave was dug before the strike was called.

The workers at Forest Lawn Memorial Park and Ocean View Park called the strike in a wages dispute.

Gilbert A. Arnold, a director at Forest Lawn, said that he himself would man the grave-digging machine if the strike continues.

"I feel it is my moral responsibility," he said. "Any funeral scheduled will be held with dignity and decency."

Several funerals are scheduled for the next few days at both cemeteries.

Suspension of Atom Tests

'It's Up to Russia Now'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States called on Russia Tuesday night to say whether she really wants a suspension of nuclear tests starting Oct. 31.

"It is up to the Soviet Union now as to whether tests will be suspended Oct. 31 or whether they are to continue," the state department said.

The department's statement was issued with unusual promptness as a comment on Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko's statements at the United Nations Tuesday.

Gromyko threatened further Soviet nuclear tests in a number equal to the tests held by the United States and Britain since March 31.

Russia announced a tests suspension March 31, after completing an extensive series of tests. It called on the United States and Britain to do likewise.

Gromyko said the Soviet Union has "all grounds to discontinue its tests only after it conducts the same number of such tests as was held by the United States and Britain taken together as allies after the cessation by the Soviet Union of its nuclear weapons tests March 31, of this year.

"It must be noted also that even prior to March 31 the United States has conducted considerably more tests than the Soviet Union. Therefore, even at that time, the U.S.S.R. was in a position of inequality as compared to the United States."

Russia, after consenting to attend the meeting at Geneva, resumed testing last week.

Uprising In Iraq Crushed

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Premier Abdel Kerim Kassem, the Iraqi strong man, has smashed a revolt by soldiers supporting his chief rival, Col. Abdel Salam Aref, it was reported Tuesday.

A regiment was disarmed. Aref himself was placed under house arrest, reliable informants said.

Kassem tok over the government July 14 after a coup overthrowing King Faisal and Premier Nuri Said, both slain.

The threat against Kassem arose last weekend. Most of the population was unaware that anything was going on.

Hit in Eye by BB Shot Boy Will Retain Sight

A 14-year-old Nanaimo boy struck in the eye by a BB pellet will retain sight in the eye, but may suffer some impairment, his doctor said in Victoria last night.

It was feared earlier this week the injured youth, Norman Stewart, would lose sight of the eye after it was struck by a pellet from a BB gun fired while he and another youth were at play last Saturday.

He was rushed to Nanaimo General Hospital and then by car to St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria following the mishap.

His mother, Mrs. Norman Stewart, 335 Third Street, Nanaimo, said she "only hoped the accident would warn others against the careless use of these guns."

Magistrate 'Too Hot' to Pass Sentence

'Medieval Torture' Right for Attackers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Magistrate Oscar Orr was so incensed by the brutality of a robber who came before him Tuesday he deferred imposition of sentence until he had "cooled down."

"I sometimes think that in medieval times they had the right idea with torture and the rack for young fellows that would do this sort of thing to that poor, old inoffensive Chinaman," he told Donald McLeod, 20, after McLeod pleaded guilty to robbing Chan You Kong, 72.

Chan, a bent and wizened junk collector, was savagely beaten in an alley here Sept. 18.

"This is a case for corporal punishment," Magistrate Orr said.

"The events detailed in this case make me see so red that I can only say to myself, 'you had better not pass sentence until you cool down.'

"The only thing that tempts me to get a pre-sentence report in this case is that I don't want to make a mistake by letting my feelings run away with me," he said.

A statement by McLeod, read in court, described how he and another man beat the aged Chinese, then stripped him of most of his clothing while the victim murmured, "No money, no money."

Don't Shoot Again Dulles Urges Chinese

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles Tuesday sought to persuade the Chinese Communists to turn their temporary Formosa Strait cease-fire into a permanent one. He said:

"The Chinese Communists, after having brutally and incessantly bombarded Quemoy for over six weeks, now say they will be humanitarian and peaceful for one week. At least for the moment there is a cessation of the bombing. This the United States has been vigorously seeking."

G. E. Mortimore's 'The Strangers'

'Called Me Dirty Indian'

Mixing Brings Fights But Understanding, Too

(This is the 37th chapter of "The Strangers," a searching report on the plight of B.C. native Indians.)

* * *

"My boy came back from the white school and called me a 'dirty Indian'."

An Indian father living in Vancouver told this incident with a wry grin. I sensed an undercurrent of sadness in it which reminded me of the ironic jokes that Jewish people sometimes tell against themselves.

From more than one parent of an Indian pupil of white elementary schools, I heard stories of youngsters coming home with marks of battle on them and admitting after questioning that they had fought because other children had called them names.

Gets Along Fine

"I taught my boy to be proud that he was Indian, and he gets along fine in school now," says Mrs. M. E. Croft, a Haida lady who lives in North Vancouver.

Edward Underwood of East Saanich, who was the only Indian going to school with the sons and daughters of Saanich pioneers, attests that the feeling was reasonably friendly in his school days. He attended Saanichton School by special permission, because his mother had worked for several families of settlers, and was highly regarded by them.

"The white boys were all right, except if I beat them running or in some game, and then they called me 'dirty Indian' to get back at me," he recalls.

Minority Bad

Present-day Indian students at provincial schools—the ones who are willing to express an opinion—seem to feel that the majority of white youngsters welcome them, but a minority make them feel uncomfortable.

Most Catholic educators believe that if there is too wide a difference between Indian and non-Indian pupils in their clothes, style of speech, customs—their social and economic levels—then the Indian pupils are in danger of suffering grave rebuffs.

"When an Indian family went to school at Forest Grove, east of 100-mile House, a few years ago, there was a move by white people to withdraw their children," I was told by Father J. Alex Morris, principal of the Cariboo Indian residential school near Williams Lake. "As a result, the children came to the residential school not long afterwards."

Father P. A. Renaud, O.M.I., said at a conference of residential school principals that the problem in Indian education was to train the whole community, not only the children. The educational program should aim to preserve the Indian habits and traditions which are useful or harmless; and eliminate the habits which would hinder people's progress, acknowledging those habits to be valid in the "old way" but impractical now.

Raise Standard

At the same time, Father Renaud said, the social-economic standard on reserves should be raised through adult education, group discussions, talks, TV, radio, movies and books.

The gathering of principals came to the conclusion that any educational program aimed at acculturating the Indian (adjusting his ways and outlook to the ways of another culture) must be based on a respect for the Indian's background and a desire to meet his special needs.

"It must include a frank, pleasant, gradual and methodical initiation of the Indian to the uses and customs of our Canadian society."

Accept as Equals

Indians will do well at non-Indian schools only under the following conditions, the report says: Teachers must know the Indian mind and culture and help pupils to bridge the cultural gap. Non-Indian pupils must accept the Indians freely as equals. The social and cultural levels of Indians and non-Indians must be roughly the same, or measures should be taken to bring them closer.

"Without active promotion of such relationship, the Indian pupil will withdraw within himself and foster feelings of bitterness if not hostility towards our Canadian society. He will adhere more closely to his own culture and shun those who deny him understanding, recognition and sympathy.

Separateness

"In such a case, instead of favoring the pupil's acculturation towards our Canadian society, attendance at the non-Indian school will, on the contrary, add to his sense of separateness."

The Oblate Fathers advanced the following arguments in favor of separate Indian day and residential schools: Pupils get equal consideration. None feels himself a stranger. Teachers are more inclined to familiarize themselves with Indian ways. Teachers have a better chance to compare Indian and non-Indian cultures without offence. Because of respect for Indian culture shown by teachers, the separate school is more likely to cultivate pride of race, which is essential to leadership.

Many Contacts

But there should be many personal contacts with non-Indians through sports, social, artistic and religious activities.

The residential school is useful for looking after orphans, children of nomadic or destitute parents. It can offer a wider range of activities than the average day school.

It provides a good study climate for high-school students from poor homes. It lacks family life, but the feeling of family life may be reproduced to take the edge off the institutionalism.

Roman Catholics have been unjustly accused of trying to segregate whites and Indians for an indefinite time. Most Rev. Fergus O'Grady, Roman Catholic Bishop of Prince Rupert, strongly urged in a recent statement that whites and Indians should go to school together. Numbers of Indian children, especially in northern B.C., already attend Catholic parochial schools together with whites. A few attend St. Louis College and St. Ann's in Victoria.

Have to Mix

The enemies of separate schools argue that Indians have to mix with whites in the workaday world. They would be more at ease in that world if they mixed with whites from earliest childhood. The white teacher represents authority. Not having mixed with whites on equal terms, the Indian leaves school fearing them.

"We were brought up to be good servants for somebody," says Mrs. Ellen Neel, noted Kwakiutl carver from Alert Bay, who now lives in Vancouver.

"When I first came to Vancouver I was so timid that I was afraid to pull the buzzer to stop a bus or street car, in case I gave somebody some trouble. So I waited until someone else pulled the buzzer. Then I got out and walked back to my stop."

Extra Problems

"All children have problems in their teens," said a high school teacher. "If an Indian boy or girl goes to a separate school for his first years, and then comes to high school, he has an extra load of trouble to deal with. He has moved to a different school, perhaps a bigger one. He has to absorb the different teaching methods of high school. He has the ordinary troubles of 'teenism.' And he is mixing with girls and boys of another race for the first time.

"All those difficulties at the same time may be too much for a person whose home life is none too stable or literate."

Early Start

"The Indian children who have gone to the ordinary schools from the first grade have no problem about mixing with the others," said another teacher. "The earlier we can get them, the better."

At Lejac Indian Residential School, an institution run by the Oblate Fathers between Prince George and Prince Rupert, I met shy boys and girls from B.C.'s northern wilderness who had never seen a car or a train.

Some of them had spoken no English when they arrived at the school. They inspected me cautiously with brown eyes. On the request of a teaching sister, they read aloud from their books in a soft, careful monotone, making their short vowels into long ones—"leev" for live and "hees" for his.

Straight Plunge

Such children plainly needed special attention. How would they do at a public school where they would be required to plunge straight into an alien language and culture?

In the course of a tour through part of the province, I visited several residential schools, red brick structures all built to similar design. At Alberni, a United Church residential school half a dozen little boys in blue jeans hopped in my car and begged me to take them for a ride—which I did, as far as the front steps. They seemed to be light-hearted little fellows, feeling at home in the school.

Irish Songs

At Kamloops I heard the school's prize-winning girl singer, singing in a charmingly incongruous brogue about shillelagh and Dublin town. They were evidently enjoying themselves.

In the hall at St. Michael's, the Anglican residential school at Alert Bay, I saw Indian teenagers in jeans and sport shirts dance rock-and-roll to a record-player, under the watchful eye of a supervisor. The girls squealed when an Elvis Presley record came on. Acculturation was already far advanced.

Tories Plan Reform

BLACKPOOL (UPI) — Britain's ruling Conservative party pulled a sweeping social reform program out of the hat Tuesday as one of its trump cards for the next general election.

The program, announced by Home Secretary R. A. Butler, included:

Stepped-up slum clearance plans;

Smog removal;

Improved sewerage and removal of river pollution;

Reforms in treatment of mental health.

Butler outlined the program to a one-day Conservative party local government conference. The meeting preceded the Conservatives' annual party convention which opens today.

"Where are we going, Dad?"

Along with the desire to go places and see things, Canadians have an urge to get ahead in life . . . to have guaranteed financial security. That's why they own more life insurance, in relation to national income, than any other people.

Over 7½ million Canadians own life insurance because they feel it offers them a variety of guaranteed benefits not obtainable in any other way.

Every year an increasing number of Canadians buy life insurance as their major source of family and personal security. For some of them it is their first policy — a beginning — while others are adding to their holdings as family responsibilities grow.

This strong belief in the ownership of life insurance means that Canadians may well continue to be the world's best insured people, in relation to national income.

With G. E. Mortimore

HOUSES arise where the trees and fields used to be. In place of cows there are housewives trading gossip and evaluating one another's washing.

Where farmers used to cut the hay, anxious-looking suburbanites push their power mowers over lawns, pausing at intervals to compare their own yards with the ones next door for neatness.

And so the city grows and the countryside is swallowed up. Some people call it progress. I call it corruption. But I happen to be one of the small-c conservatives, the illogical people—who prefer things to be left as they are.

In this world nothing ever remains the same. "The only thing constant is change," so we small-c conservatives are beaten before we start. At the back of our minds we know that we belong to a lost cause.

We are always mourning for landmarks and the spacious views of former days. "There used to be a fine big house there with a maple tree in the front yard, and pasture all around," we say.

"Now look. The old house torn to pieces, the maple tree chopped down. In place of the house, tree and fields, an ugly apartment block, a supermarket and half a dozen jerry-built kennels of plaster and imitation knotty pine, inhabited by people whose only topics of conversation are the sports scores, their clothes, appliances and babies, and what's on the TV tonight."

No Time for Regrets

We talk like that, but we know that the old things were not destined to live beyond a certain time. The destiny of this section of real estate was to become what it is now, part of a city, the home of live-wire, hustling organization men and organization women who do not waste time on regrets, but get in there and sell.

The "old things" themselves had replaced the primeval bush, and the new suburbs will eventually be slums, if mankind still tolerates slums by the time this subdivision comes of age.

But it hurts the vision, to focus upon such a long view. Some of us like to delude ourselves with the comfortable fancy that there are permanent things in the world, and then cry after them when they break up, even though we knew from the start that it had to happen.

Of course there are some places where buildings outlive human beings, but not in this dynamic frontier environment. The people who truly enjoy the ever-changing face of the country and the city are those who have a radical temperament, exactly the opposite neurosis to the one that afflicts small-c conservatives.

The radicals actually draw pleasure from seeing things torn down and changed. There is a restive, sadistic hunger in them that feeds on destruction.

Another thing that makes a difference is whether you own some of the landscape or not. No doubt it eases the blow of seeing an orchard chopped down and a dismal housing estate built in its place, if you have a few thousands of dollars of heart balm put away in the bank.

Bennett Braves 'Danger'

Premier W. A. C. Bennett may be walking into a hornet's nest, but he has accepted an invitation to speak at the Friday luncheon of the B.C. Government Employees' Association convention in Vancouver.

And major topics of the 15th annual convention, to be held in the Georgia Hotel Friday and Saturday, will centre around dissatisfaction with the government's handling of wage increases and a call for positive action which might mean a strike vote.

FIRST ATTENDED

It will be the first convention attended by the premier although invitations have been extended to him every year since 1952.

Also to attend the luncheon are Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan and Works Minister W. N. Chant. At last year's convention in Kelowna no government member was present.

DEUTSCH GUEST

Guest speaker at the luncheon will be John J. Deutsch, head of the UBC department of economics and political science.

A numbre of resolutions before the convention deal with collective bargaining rights for government employees and are indicative of the disappointment felt by the members that the board of reference, set up to study the matter as a result of the strike settlement in 1957, has not yet concluded its hearing.

Jones Named Forestry Publicist

Promotion of Tegid C. Jones, 28, as public relations officer in the public information and education division of the B.C. forest service was announced last night by deputy forests minister R. G. McKee.

He succeeds David Monk, now director of public information for the forest service.

For the last five years he has been senior school lecturer with the forest service and has lectured to some 150,000 students of all ages during that time.

Wonderful While It Lasted

YORK, England (AP) — Alan Yansley joined the British army Tuesday and figured they were going to make him a general right at the start.

A welcoming delegation of soldiers came to greet him.

Capt. Peter Fleming, leading the welcoming group, shook hands and escorted Yansley off to the nearby camp in an army car.

The commanding officer, Maj. J. S. Wood, stepped forward and presented the new soldier with a government savings bond as a welcoming gift.

Yansley was beginning to get the idea that the British army must be in pretty bad shape for manpower. But there wasn't a hint of what it was all about until the commanding officer started his welcoming speech.

Yansley, said the happy major, was the regiment's 200th recruit of the year, the man who fulfilled the recruiting target.

Well, it was wonderful while it lasted. Today Yansley is on the roster for kitchen police.

UBCM Themes Advanced

THE closing day of the federal-municipal talks at Ottawa will be of much interest to British Columbia municipalities because the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities obviously has adopted the Murison report of the Union of B.C. Municipalities and recommended it to the national government. Although the talks were conducted in private, statements by cabinet spokesmen and civic leaders afterwards detailed the nature of the discussions.

Six major points in the UBCM brief clearly have been urged upon the government: federal underwriting of low-cost loans to municipalities for essential public works; removal of municipal obligation in capital hospital construction; upkeep of arterial routes through cities by the senior governments; federal public works in place of relief grants this winter; relief of pressure on property values through fresh sources of municipal revenues; and a formal federal-provincial-municipal conference where a new civic deal might be worked out.

Meanwhile, federal responses have been less indicative. "There has been some disposition to say that the municipalities could do more to help themselves, and that their problems are provincial rather than national. Federation delegates, however, have reported that they are hopeful of some resulting action, particularly in relation to public works this winter. They pointed out that it has been a quarter of a century since the Rowell-Sirois commission made its recommendations on municipal responsibilities; and were unmoved by the suggestion that there should be another commission. Tripartite negotiation and settlement between all levels of government was the main UBCM plank.

On the helpfulness of a guaranteed loan fund under federal auspices—whether through the Bank of Canada or otherwise—there may be mixed views. While either through a revolving loan fund or on a one-time-only basis the municipalities might benefit by a slight reduction of interest for essential capital works, that would not give them any fresh sources of revenue. Sewer construction loans, for instance, might be secured at 4 per cent with federal backing; in place of the 5 or more per cent which municipal issues would carry. The savings would at best be fractional; and, when spread over the average loan period of 20 years, of small relation to the cost of such works themselves.

What federal backing would do, however, would be to establish easier municipal credit and for numbers of municipalities that would be of help. This expedient, however, would not go to the source of the municipal complaint, which is the existing uneven division of responsibilities.

With the Troops Overseas

AN army corporal just back from service in Egypt is quoted as saying that Canadians have forgotten their UNEF contingent in the Middle East. It is probably true that most people don't think much about the Canadian troops there; their role while important is now a quiet one and except for relatives the impact of their absence is not sharp. There is no daily news about them, and thankfully there are no casualty rolls to draw attention to them.

Foreign military service in peacetime is essentially of this nature, however. It is perhaps because this is a new venture for Canadian troops, belonging only to recent years, that there is expectation of constant home interest in their doings. Other national troops have learned to take such service in their stride. Basically Canadians are aware of their men overseas, nevertheless, and officially they are unlikely to be ignored.

The corporal complains that a Swedish member of the UNEF can buy a camera off his canteen shelf, while Canadians have to order it and wait until it arrives from here. If that is the chief disability under which Canadian troops in the Middle East labor, the corporal hasn't much to grumble about. He should scarcely expect a chromium-lined way of life or instant supermarket service while on a tour of duty in the Egyptian desert. If he does then there is something wrong with the mental approach to army life in foreign parts.

That one instance does relate to welfare in general, however. Apparently the different national components of the UNEF are serviced separately, instead of the supply train being the same for all. This of course can invite degrees of jealousy and a let-down feeling if some other troops are more carefully looked after. During the Korean campaign there were similar complaints that in the matter of amenities the Canadians came off second best. If there is real substance to the corporal's complaint that the Canadian contingent of the UNEF suffers by comparison with the representatives of other nations, then it is time the defence department took note of it. While Canadians at home may not have their overseas troops in mind every minute they expect Ottawa to remain aware of their needs in every reasonable respect.

Retain Mill Bay Ferry

POSSIBILITY of the Brentwood-Mill Bay ferry service being suspended towards the end of this month has aroused understandable dismay, and the provincial government is being urged to take whatever action is necessary to overcome the operators' difficulties. The request is one which should be given sympathetic attention, for the Mill Bay ferry link is an integral part of the highway system of this region.

While it may not be essential in the literal sense of the word, the ferry has several important functions the year around, and though traffic in winter may be less than in summer that does not mean that service can be dropped without inconvenience and loss to travellers, regular as well as casual. The tourist industry, now active all year, and the many local people who rely on the ferry as a short-cut to and from Saanich Peninsula are entitled to consideration in winter as well as in summer—in fact, more so in some instances.

The suggestion of additional assistance from the Province has introduced the question of subsidy, unpopular in some quarters. There is no good reason in principle or practice why it should be. Ferries are merely water-borne extensions of highways, comparable in every way to bridges over rivers. Highways themselves seldom pay their own way either through tolls or indirectly through the gasoline tax revenue they produce, and there is no logical reason why ferries should be expected to do so.

Nor can the private operator of what is in all respects a public utility be expected to provide service at a loss. The financial position of the company on a twelve-month basis, taking the good season with the bad, is open to inspection by the government. If it can be shown that assistance is needed to maintain the link with at least one of the two vessels, the arrangement of a suitable contract should not be difficult.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE editor of Burke's Peerage, which few of us ever feel inclined to ask for at the local library, has written a book on the twilight of the monarchy.

The thesis is his own, and it seems to be denied by some items in Newsweek, which, elaborates on the kind of stories most favored by the mass-circulation journals of Britain.

"Put the Queen on the cover," says one magazine manager, "and your sales go sky-rocketing."

The London dailies must agree, for the best grist for their mill is a story about the royal family, real or invented. Currently, also, there are three book serializations of this nature running in Fleet Street.

That would not seem to suggest that any monarchial twilight is approaching. As Newsweek says, just as the simplest action of President Eisenhower's life is news in the U.S., so is everything about the royal family in Britain.

I suppose the same might be said for Canada, albeit you never know exactly what people are thinking. But if the excitement of a royal visit is any criterion then Canadians are equally enthused on the subject.

They could be excused, I think, if they were not. Until recently royalty has been a remote influence, something that did not touch the Canadian life intimately. It is different with British people who grow up in the shadow of the throne, as it were, and to whom the history of their kings and queens has a very real quality. They are closer to the sovereign, and if in modern times the Crown is more of a mystic symbol than anything else it represents the significant past of their nation.

* * *

I myself am a monarchist, probably because I also grew up in that kingdom, although my leal is primarily confined to the sovereign and does not necessarily embrace the vagaries of every member of the House of Windsor.

Canada is also a kingdom, of course, constitutionally at least, but in a much more abstract way. Royalty has not impinged on the lives of Canadians as it has on Britons.

I could quite understand, in fact, if most Canadians felt no special link with the throne. The majority of them, 51 per cent, have no roots in British stock and it seems too much to expect they should experience any pull of kinship.

Commenting on the peerage editor's notions about the monarchy the Ottawa Journal, disagreeing with him, says it does not know how many republicans there might be in Britain but it doubts there are more than a handful in Canada.

I wonder if the Ottawa paper is not optimistic. Readers all across this country seem to gobble up eagerly every tit-bit about the royal family—even while deploring some of the gossip—and when the Queen comes to Canada next year she will command a great welcome.

But often enough I have the feeling that if a secret poll were taken in Canada the majority count would run against the monarchy; or, at least, would be indifferent about it.

Some of that reaction stems from recent grumblings I have heard about the expense of royalty, a mistaken notion since the cost to Canada is minute. Some of it has seeped into me through the years, as observation inclines me to doubt a deep-seated enthusiasm for the monarchy among native-born Canadians.

I can be all wrong, and as a royalist I hope I am, even if this column is sure to provoke a retort from one reader bitterly opposed to the Crown. Most of my other readers, perhaps, sing "God Save the Queen" with gusto.

London Letter

Canada Under Microscope

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

THE Canadian way of life is under the microscope in Britain just now. A number of British building societies are contemplating extending their activities to Canada. Some have investigated the position at first hand—others are consulting statistics.

"The British building society has acquired a unique place in British life. By far the greater number of homes are purchased through a building society. It has a two-way function. It encourages thrift on the one hand by inviting investment—loan monies carry from 3½ to 4½ per cent interest with income tax paid by the society—and earns its keep by letting out on mortgage to owner-occupiers at between 5 and 6 per cent. The difference pays for administration, lawyers and surveyors.

Some building societies advance up to 95 per cent of the value of new property—most of them 90 per cent—and about 70 per cent on an old property. The society makes its own valuation. The purchaser repays over a period of from 10 to 35 years. The number of repossessions is less than a quarter of one per cent.

The broad conditions of a loan are that the borrower must be a reputable citizen in a good job and the repayments must not exceed one-fifth and preferably one-sixth of his annual income. Mortgages may be paid off at any time or they may be reduced during currency by lump-sum payments to reduce interest charges.

What surprises the British building society executive is that Canadian financing is geared to provide the Canadian citizen with almost anything he wants from a pair of pants to an automobile without downpament, but it seems to have overlooked providing easy finance to buy a place in which to put his acquisitions. From this they deduce that Canadian credit is geared to short-term loans and comparatively quick repayments.

* * *

This in turn leads to other conclusions. The first is that Canadians are by nature nomadic. Comparatively few Canadians finish up life in the city or place in which they were born; very few Canadians stick to the same house—they regard a house as a commodity to be bought and sold. They move to bigger ones and smaller ones according to their standards of living. An old house is too often regarded as a social handicap—the desire is always for an up-to-date model.

When a Canadian buys a house, I was assured, he does so with the idea that it will do until he can find something better—or afford something better. The average Briton buys a house with the intention of living in it for the rest of his life.

Preliminary conclusions are that if British building societies do go to Canada they would impose very different conditions. "If we asked for a 20 per cent deposit it would still be an improvement on existing averages in Canada, likewise if we asked for repayments over say seven to 10 years," I was told.

"Our assessment is that Canadians do not like committing themselves over long periods, and that is why their time payment business is so successful and why it differs from Britain. The average Briton regards himself as settled and prefers a long time to pay; comparatively few artisans go in for stocks and shares; they prefer gilt-edged investments, and most are content with the building society both for putting his money in and financing his house purchase. We suspect that this fundamental difference in average character is the reason why building societies are not yet part of the Canadian economy."

But it seems to be agreed that Canada does offer opportunities for building societies geared to the Canadian way of life. Reading between the lines I got the impression that if long-term investment was offered too many Canadians would tend to regard the repayments as rent and walk out when they got tired of their house, leaving the building society to dispose of the property—which is the very last thing they want. It is a fact that in Britain it is often cheaper in terms of weekly payments to buy a house than rent one.

I asked if they regarded Canadians—on the basis of statistics—as less stable than Britons as a nation. "Yes and no," I was told. "The average Briton saves nearly twice as much as the average Canadian in proportion to his income, but against that the Canadian may go from metaphorical rags to riches in five years. In Britain that is a lifetime job. The Briton is more static and tends to stick to one place or area. He spends less on travel and is more nervous about borrowing money—but he makes less. Per head Canadians may save more cash, but it is less in proportion to income. In other words he runs his life differently and it suggests that to meet Canadian conditions we would have to run our business differently."

But I gathered that the general opinion was that there were opportunities in Canada for building societies and that some may open Canadian offices in the not too distant future.

Newfoundland Is . . .

Awakening to New Life

By LEONARD ENGEL North American Newspaper Alliance

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland—Within a decade Washington's Grand Coulee Dam is due to be surpassed as the world's greatest power generator by a development in the wilderness of Labrador, a region awakening to new life.

Three hundred miles in from the Labrador coast, the Hamilton River spills a mightly torrent over a 245-foot cliff. The falls are half again as high as Niagara and can, engineers say, yield half again as much power as Grand Coulee—3,000,000 versus 2,000,000 kilowatts.

A British syndicate, the British Newfoundland Corporation, has the Hamilton Falls power concession. "Brinco" is looking for customers now; the power would either be fed to industrial towns and cities in lower Quebec or used in the great new iron mines on the Labrador-Quebec border. Construction of a dam and power plant will begin as soon as contracts are signed for the first 750,000 kilowatts of power.

Hamilton Falls Hydro is a key project in imagination-stirring plans here to bring a new future to Newfoundland and Labrador, a dependency of Newfoundland.

During most of the four and a half centuries since the coming of the first white men, Newfoundland has lived chiefly by fishing. The soil is too thin and the summers too short for widespread farming. But the population of Newfoundland — the world's tenth largest island—is now 430,000—too large to be supported, directly or indirectly, by fishing. Moreover, Newfoundland fishermen have had to face ever stiffer competition in recent years from fishermen of other countries, who also come to Newfoundland's renowned grand banks to fish.

Newfoundland's Premier J. B. Smallwood, is pressing development of rich Newfoundland and Labrador hydro-electric, timber and mineral resources to take up the slack. Newfoundland is known to have untapped resources of copper and asbestos. Labrador has extensive pulpwood forests, promising uranium ores, and, at Wabush Lake in the interior, iron deposit at least three times as great as the iron-ore fields opened up since World War Two.

An intriguing part of Newfoundland's plans is a scheme for a big new port at Bay d'Espoir — pronounced locally Bay Despair, though the name actually means Bay of Hope—on Newfoundland's south coast.

The Bay d'Espoir plan hinges on two developments. One is the willingness of Canada to declare the bay a national port and contribute to the construction of harbor and warehouse facilities. The other is a strong U.S. recovery from the recent recession, and a revival of demand for iron ore. As a result of the drop in U.S. steel production, mining is off at existing Labrador iron mines and development of the Wabush Lake field has been held up.

But the world needs the iron ore and other resources of Labrador and Newfoundland. Newfoundland leaders are certain their bold plans will sooner or later be carried out.

The Packsack

of GREGORY CLARK

JUST as no girl really knows what she looks like from behind, no man really knows what he looks like from in front. If he did, he would be far more particular about his expression and his bearing.

Girls, who are tirelessly examining themselves in mirrors and in store windows as they walk along the streets, are thoroughly conscious of how they look, and seem to have no trouble keeping constantly in mind the business of wearing an attractive expression and a conscious bearing. As you observe the girls on the street, you cannot help but note the mask-like expressions they wear.

But the men have a thousand expressions. As they pass by, you see everything from ennui to joy of life. The only time a man wears a poker face is when he is playing poker.

Some time ago I was on a committee to which was introduced a man we were about to select for a highly-paid and important job. He had his poker face on when he entered the room. But in ten minutes, his face revealed so much of arrogance, impatience and prejudice that he was passed up for a far less aggressive but much more agreeable man. Very few men know what they look like from in front.

Which is a very fortunate thing for us all.

Interpreting the News

Conservatives in Easy Wins

OTTAWA (CP) — On the record, the two recent federal byelections show that the Progressive Conservatives so far have apparently lost none of the momentum that produced their resounding general election victory last March 31.

The two votes in Ontario and Quebec constituencies, also indicated that the Liberal opposition is not yet ready to wage an all-out electoral fight against the government.

Liberal Leader Pearson now is in the midst of the first major organizing tour he has had time to make since becoming leader last January. His long-range goal: the next general election some four years from now.

* * *

At any rate, Conservatives had a comparatively easy time of it in retaining Grenville-Dundas in eastern Ontario, and capturing Quebec's Montmagny-L'Islet from the Liberals.

In Grenville-Dundas, a Conservative stronghold for some 80 years, Mr. Pearson entered the campaign only once at the outset, and no other former Liberal cabinet ministers went to help party candidate Mark P. Salmon, who waged a vigorous fight.

On the other hand, four Conservative ministers lent a hand to Mrs. Jean Casselman, 38-year-old widow of Clair Casselman who had held the riding since 1924. She came in 5,121 votes ahead, compared with the 6,453-vote majority of her husband last March 31, and polled only 55 votes fewer than he did.

* * *

Liberals in Montmagny-L'Islet on March 31 survived the landslide that swept Conservatives to victory in two-thirds of Quebec's 75 ridings. But in the byelection that riding switched to the government too, voting Conservative for the first time since it was established in 1933.

The only former Liberal cabinet minister who entered the campaign there was Lionel Chevrier. Mr. Pearson took no part, nor did Jean Lesage, former resources minister who vacated the seat earlier this year to become Quebec Liberal leader.

But half-a-dozen Conservative cabinet ministers campaigned for Louis Fortin, 37-year-old Ste. Foy judge and Quebec City lawyer, who defeated Liberal Bernardin Blanchet by about 1,000 votes. In the last two general elections Mr. Lesage had enjoyed majorities of 3,135 and 726.

Letters to the Editor

By What Right?

I was amazed to read in the Colonist that an "official protest" had been sent to the Mexican consulate in Vancouver regarding he work of artist Andres Salgo. The letter states that "the people of Victoria have a right to feel surprised," etc.

Unavoidable circumstances have up to the present time prevented my viewing the exhibition, but what right has any small group, however expert they may be, to speak for me, or judge my likes and dislikes?

I am well acquainted with the work of six of the seven self-appointed critics, and as a layman with more than a passing interest in art, I like very much the work of some of them, but the others I neither understand nor care to view. That does not mean that when their pictures were exhibited at a gallery I call upon the city council to stop the show. I take the bad with the good, realizing that there are several hundred other people in this city with their ideas of what constitutes "good art."

A tape recorder hidden in every art gallery in the world to register the unbiased and unprejudiced views of the patrons might revolutionize many of the ideas of a good many of our leading art critics and educators.

I am pleased that the staff of the Victoria Art Gallery have decided to remain non-partisan, and that I shall have an opportunity as a member and one of the "people of Victoria" to decide for myself whether or not I like Mr. Salgo's paintings. I have faith in their ability to select and present to the people of Victoria and visitors, shows to cover the taste of all of us.

Society for Peace

The Colonist a few days ago carried a brief account of the formation of the "Peace by Peaceful Means" Society, and I feel that a few words of explanation are needed to clarify the basis of membership.

Invitations to the inaugural meeting were sent out to organizations who were invited to send delegates, and an excellent cross section of churches, service clubs, lodges and educational groups sent representatives. After some discussion, however, it was decided that the role of the organizational representative was in the nature of liaison, rather than as a voting delegate to speak for his or her group.

It was, therefore, moved and unanimously agreed that membership should be on a purely individual basis with the members that came from organizations joining as individual members if they so desired and carrying back to their organizations a report of the ideas, activities and suggestions that are discussed at the meetings.

This decision made it possible for members to vote as individuals without in any way committing this organization to any course of action. The fact that over 90 per cent of those attending the meeting joined as charter members attested to the interest these delegates had as individuals in the aims and objects of this new society.

It should be made clear, then, that any one in Greater Victoria is welcome to attend the next meeting on Thursday, Oct. 30, in the Health and Welfare Building at Cook and Pembroke at 8 p.m., either as an interested individual or as representative of an organization wishing to discover the nature of the society and to carry this information back to his or her group.

(Mrs.) R. G. PHILLIPS.

No Ill Will

No bad feeling is held by Negro integration leader Rev. Martin Luther King, shown with his wife in a Harlem, N.Y., hospital, against a Negro woman who plunged a letter-opener into his chest while he was autographing books in a store. He has asked that the woman receive the help "she apparently needs" to become a constructive member of society.

'Colonist' Exhibit Popular

Most popular exhibit in the British Columbia Centennial Caravan, which travelled 13,000 miles and was seen by more than 150,000 people in British Columbia, was the first issue of The British Colonist published in December, 1858.

That was the word brought to Victoria yesterday by caravan drivers David Hickling and James Freemantle, who brought the two 51-foot semi-trailer caravan trucks back here Monday night to conclude their five-month B.C. tour.

"There was more comment about the old newspaper than any other exhibit," Mr. Hickling said.

"The kids were drawn by the weapons and guns and the high school students went for the Hudson's Bay Company forts and early explorations routes exhibits," he added.

RCMP to Probe Wholesale Perjury

EDMONTON (CP) — The attorney-general's department has asked the RCMP to investigate possible wholesale perjury in connection with last year's oil and gas royalty dividend distribution in Alberta.

The action results from statements by Mr. Justice M. M. Porter in Alberta Appeal Court during hearings in connection with dividend fraud cases.

Three accused persons told the court they were intoxicated at the time they made their application and declaration of eligibility for the $20 dividend.

Mr. Justice Porter said if commissioners for oaths were taking declarations from intoxicated persons, "they are making perjury so convenient" they should be punished.

B.C. Municipal Ideas Blanked As Subsidized Loans Backed

British Columbia's ideas apparently were overridden yesterday when Canadian municipalities asked the federal government to help establish a federal-provincial fund for low-interest loans to municipalities.

The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities made the request in informal talks with the federal government in Ottawa.

But less than two weeks ago, the Union of B.C. Municipalities adopted a financial policy opposed to low-interest loans from the senior governments.

Meeting in Nanaimo, the UBCM approved unanimously a policy statement which said:

"The intent (of low-interest loan proposals) is that the senior governments should lend money to municipalities at a lower rate of interest than that at which they themselves borrow. The difference between the two rates is obviously a direct subsidy to the borrower.

"In the aggregate these subsidies would be variable and unpredictable, as well as uncontrollable as to total, and at the same time would be a direct incentive to municipalities to seek relief through borrowing rather than through prudent administration. Apart from these objections subsidized borrowing is contrary to the principle that local governments should meet the entire cost of their own local services."

The B.C. municipalities came to the conclusion that the only assistance in municipal borrowing should be in the form of federal guarantees of loans for self-liquidating projects or projects in which the cost was shared by two or more levels of government.

'Useful Discussion' But No Decisions

OTTAWA (CP) — A two-day federal-municipal conference, first of its kind ever held, ended Tuesday with congratulations exchanged by both sides for a "useful discussion" but with no decisions on concrete action.

However, Justice Minister Fulton, conference chairman, indicated the 25 delegates from the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities have stirred the government's interest with two proposals.

INCENTIVE PROJECTS

One is for a federal "incentive" to municipalities to undertake job-creating building projects in the winter with federal funds to lift part or all of the extra burden of wintertime construction.

The other, put forward Monday was for fresh financial help from the central government towards slum clearance and "big pipe" sewer and water mains for new housing developments.

BETTER UNDERSTANDING

Questioned about the absence of agreement on any specific action, Mr. Fulton said the conference was "not designed to go away with a list of decisions." The government had received a better, clearer understanding of municipal problems.

ONE AGREEMENT

The conference did produce one agreement—that federation officials would be called in for talks with federal officials on three specific points: the slum-clearance and housing proposal; a municipal request for complete exemption from the 10 per cent sales tax on all their purchases, and a request for payment of grants equalling full municipal real estate taxes on crown corporations.

Industrials Creep Towards All-Time High

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials stretched their winning streak to seven sessions in mixed trading.

The industrial index pushed to 503.17 with a 3.82 gain on the day, best showing since August 1956 when the index touched its all-time peak of 506.33.

Industrials were paced by Ford A, ahead 2¼ at 103½. Banks were the big winners.

Of the five most active industrials, Trans-Canada Pipe Line, off ¼ at 37½, was the only loser.

Western oils were hit by profit-taking in early trading and were practically unchanged in the final two hours. Most senior issues dropped fractions with Bailey Selburn hardest hit, down ⅝ at 10½.

Banks Advance

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally higher in active trading.

Banks advanced and recorded five new highs—Nova Scotia up ¾ at 70½, Commerce up ½ at 55, Royal up 1½ at 73½, Toronto-Dominion up 1¼ at 52, and Montreal up 1½ at 52½.

Down ⅜ in the oils and pipelines were Trans-Canada Pipeline at 37⅝ and Canadian Oil at 27⅜. McColl Oil was up ⅝ at 65¾.

Utilities were mixed. B.C. Power was off 1¼ at 40¼.

Up ⅝ in the base metals were Hudson Bay at 57 and Consolidated Smelters at 21¼.

In the papers, Minnesota and Ontario declined 1¼ at 33½, and Abitibi lost ½ at 34½. Up ¼ were Brown at 6, a new high, and Fraser at 29¾. Other new highs included Ford A, up 2¼ at 103½.

Rally Near Close

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks turned higher in the last half hour of trading after bumping along an irregular course most of the session.

The late spurt carried industrial stocks to a new all-time high and lifted rails to their best level in the averages since Aug. 7, 1957.

The market ran late near the close with prices rising. Du Pont was up around 2 at the close in the chemicals. Rails turned higher along with a number of major groups.

Profit-taking on the heels of the market's recent upswing brought irregularity into the list during most of the session. But the weight of favorable corporate and economic developments made itself felt near the close.

Youngstown jumped more than 2 in the steels and Union Carbide more than 1 in the chemicals.

The rally carried all major groups up from their lows with some issues recovering losses running to almost a point.

Industrials Boosted

VANCOUVER — Industrial stocks showed general strength with some new highs recorded. Woodward Stores closed 18¼ after trading at $18½. Aluminum Ltd. changed hands at $32; Alberta Distillers at $2, MacMillan B at $34¾ and Powell River at $36½.

Capital Estates gained a fraction at $8⅛.

Cowichan Copper reacted to 95 cents on profit-taking, down 14 cents. Silver Ridge was also lower at 15 cents in fairly active trading.

Oils were reactionary with changes small.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most grain prices moved narrowly in quiet trade.

Export business also was quiet, being limited to parcel lots of flax sold to the United Kingdom.

Flax dealings uncovered a few export orders and offerings came in the form of hedges.

Firm Acts To Avoid School Tax

VANCOUVER (CP) — MacMillan and Bloedel (Alberni) Ltd. has taken action in supreme court to enforce a 20-year fixed-assessment agreement with the city of Alberni.

The agreement was negotiated in 1945 with a fixed assessment of $100,000 for land and $700,000 for improvements.

This year the company paid $106,288 in taxes but the city billed it an additional $393,208 for school taxes under the new assessment equalization act.

The company seeks to have the agreement made binding for another seven years.

Fowl-Killing Cat Escapes Hunter, Pack

CAMPBELL RIVER — A cougar that killed seven chickens in the backyard of a home on the outskirts of the city escaped in the darkness from its would-be hunters.

The "Thanksgiving" raid marked the return of the predators to this area where they have long been a nuisance and a danger.

Government hunter James Dewar from Nanaimo failed to get on the track of the chicken killer when heavy rain wiped out the scent and the hunter's cougar hounds were unable to pick up the trail.

The professional hunter was called when Mrs. J. W. Perkins saw the cougar close to the house after it had killed the chickens. The location is just over the Campbell River bridge where a bear was shot and wounded last week.

Rape Trial Conducted In Private

Trial of a 16-year-old Saanich youth charged with rape was held behind closed doors yesterday as Victoria's fall assizes began in Assize Court.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane agreed with Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie that it was in the interest of public morals to exclude the public from the hearings.

Charged is Reginald John Barker, accused of an offence against a six-year-old girl in Saanich, May 11. He is being represented by James Proudfoot.

Forest Chief

Appointed assistant chief forester of the B.C. forest service operations branch is Lorne F. Swannell, above, who is now district forester at Kamloops and takes over his new duties in six weeks. He succeeds R. G. McKee, who is now deputy-minister of forests. Mr. Swannell was born in Victoria in 1908 and has been with the forest service since 192".

Autumn Whirlwind

Holiday Travel Will Be Brisk

Travel between Vancouver Island and the mainland this centennial year Thanksgiving weekend will be as brisk as an autumn whirlwind.

Two out of four transportation companies involved in the project of transporting diners to turkey dinners away from home, have already scheduled extra service to meet heavy advance demand.

Trans-Canada Air Lines has 12 extra flights out of Victoria and an extra one on Thursday for travellers with a long, long weekend to unwind.

The extras, Friday, will include 10 to Vancouver and two to Seattle with accommodation being provided for a total of 500 passengers over the normal weekend quota. More flights will be added if required.

Monday the air line is scheduling 10 extra flights to Vancouver and three to Seattle.

CPR district travel agent Harry Newton advised motorists to book well in advance for travel on company ferries during the forthcoming weekend—traditionally one of the busiest of the year.

The ferry company has an extra sailing scheduled for Monday on its Horseshoe Bay-Nanaimo run to cope with the rush back home.

No extra runs are being planned by Washington State Ferries operating between Sidney and Anacortes or for Black Ball Ferries Ltd.'s two-hourly service between Departure Bay and Horseshoe Bay.

½ AWAKE NIGHTS ½ ASLEEP DAYS

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn in bed—and then are dull and listless throughout the day. All of which may be due to a temporary toxic condition which calls for the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they slow down and impurities stay in the system, disturbed rest, tired feeling and backache often follow. If you don't rest well at night—if you haven't that sprightly step of health in the daytime—use Dodd's Kidney Pills. You can depend on Dodd's!

Dragstrip Appeal Supported

A police-sponsored dragstrip should be provided for Vancouver Island's hotrod enthusiasts, a city business man said yesterday.

J. Courtney Haddock, manager of a Victoria department store, supported the public appeal opened Oct. 1 by the Island Timing Association, formed of all organized hotrod clubs on the Island.

The ITA appealed for public subscription to reach its target of $25,000 for the construction of a dragstrip. Member clubs have already raised $1,500 towards the cost.

"We have a good core of energetic young people who are interested in cars and mechanics," Mr. Haddock said. "I think a dragstrip would be a good thing for them."

He suggested that police, including the RCMP, should sponsor activities on the dragstrip and assist and guide club members.

Some 17 per cent of Greater Victoria's population is more than 65 years of age, he said, and the young people were more or less forgotten.

Donations to the appeal may be sent to the Island Timing Association, post office box 461, Victoria.

Some lucky fisherman will be the owner of the above outfit for having entered a fish in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest. It consists of a 12-foot Sea King glass boat complete with Viking outboard motor, controls, deck and windshield and also includes the Master-Craft trailer. (See story below.)

Only Eight Days Left To Boost Prize Hopes

Only eight more fishing days are left for anglers to get their extra chances to win valuable hidden-weight prizes in the Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest, which closes out its fourth year next Wednesday.

Every fish entered by a Colonist subscriber means another chance to win a hidden-weight prize. Hidden-weight prizes are given away at the end of each month and the main hidden-weight draw will be made after the conclusion of the contest, probably near the end of the month.

Top prize this year, worth approximately $1,000, is a 12-foot Sea King glass boat complete with a Viking outboard motor, controls, deck, windshield and a Master Craft trailer. It will go to a Colonist subscriber who has entered a fish in the King Fisherman Contest at any time between May 1 and October 15, inclusive. There is no charge to enter, all that is needed being a salmon of more than five pounds or a trout or bass of one pound or more. Entry can be made at any boathouse.

Fifteen other valuable prizes will also be given away in the main draw. These include four complete trolling outfits consisting of a Sea King glass rod and an Ocean City "starless drag" reel, a Plarex steelhead jacket, a Smoky Joe portable smokehouse, a Plarex waterproof outfit of jacket and trousers, two Plas-tak tackle boxes, three Sea King steelhead rods and three one-dozen lots of Strip-Teasers.

In addition, all entries between now and October 15 also stand a chance of winning an October hidden-weight prize. Size of fish have no bearing on hidden-weight draw as long as they are larger than prescribed minimums mentioned above. A five-pound coho or a one-pound trout or bass has an equal chance with a 50-pound tyee.

Spahn Gets Call from Braves; Yanks May Counter with Ford

By OSCAR FRALEY

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Milwaukee Braves, shooting the works in an attempt to wrap up their second straight world series win against the New York Yankees in six games, will call on Warren Spahn today for an iron-man triple win accomplished only once since the 37-year-old southpaw was born.

Spahn will defy the clock and the calendar by seeking his third triumph with only two days rest when the series resumes at Milwaukee County Stadium at 1 p.m. CST (11 a.m. Victoria time).

But the chances seemed good that Spahn's opponent will be Whitey Ford, the 30-year-old Yankee southpaw who dueled with Spahn twice in this series and who also pitched on Sunday.

New York manager Casey Stengel refused to state definitely who would get the starting job for his club but he indicated strongly that it would be Ford.

WHITEY WILLING

"You've got to get a pitcher to compare with Spahn," Stengel said. "Ford told me he is ready. I think he expects to pitch. He always thinks I've got a weak head if I don't pitch him."

Sixth game of the world series will be telecast over channels 2, 4 and 6 this morning starting at 10.45. Radio broadcast can be heard over CJOR (600) and KOMO (1000).

Casey was also considering Don Larsen, who blanked the Braves for seven innings Saturday before his arm tightened up on him, and Art Ditmar and there was speculation that the gnarled Yankee boss would surprise by starting Ryne Duren, his fast-balling relief ace.

The situation on Larsen is complicated by the fact the big righthander has a chronic sore arm. Ditmar has seen no series action but is an experienced and capable righthander. Duren has been in two games, losing the first after going to Ford's relief and protecting Larsen's shutout on Saturday.

Milwaukee manager Fred Haney named Spahn after a clubhouse meeting which lasted only a few seconds.

"I asked him if he thought he could close it out for us and he said he'd 'sure like to try'," Haney said.

Spahn's selection was, nevertheless, a surprise. He hasn't pitched with two days between games since 1955. But Spahn was sure he could do it.

"My arm feels fine," he asserted. "It was sore after the first game but it wasn't sore or dead after Sunday's game."

The Braves will probably go with their righthanded-hitting lineup if Ford pitches. That puts Joe Adcock back on first base and Andy Pafko in the outfield in place of Frank Torre and Bill Bruton, respectively.

Elston Howard will continue in left field for the Yankees and Andy Carey will probably take over again at third base but no other New York changes are likely.

The Yankees were quoted as 6-5 to win today's game but the Braves are 11-5 to win the series, odds likely to change drastically if the series goes to a seventh game.

If it's Ford today, the Yankees will have Bob Turley ready for the deciding game if there is one. The Braves, of course, will put their hopes on Lew Burdette.

The Yankees, who started Monday's game with a .168 batting average, feel that their hit attack on Monday marked the end of a protracted batting slump.

Not counting their pitcher, they will have six righthanded hitters in the lineup against Spahn. They feel that Gil McDougald ended his slump Monday and believe that Bill Skowron and Howard are about ready to give Hank Bauer, Mantle and McDougald some help.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

At the recent presentation of prizes at the Gorge Vale Golf Club, the suggestion was made that the club would like to challenge any other club in the district for the honor of becoming the champion club of the district.

Gorge Vale is willing to put forward a 12-man team to show what it can do.

What about it, Colwood? Your boys have been cocks of the walk around these parts for some time.

Incidentally, if the match materializes, Gorge Vale proposes to take a collection with all proceeds going to the funds of the Community Chest.

At that presentation, I was sitting next to Johnnie Merriman.

He told me I would not recognize him next time I saw him on the course.

Reason is that lightnin' fast Johnnie is developing a swing of the slow lazy sort. Johnnie has been runner-up in a lot of events recently and he thinks some alteration in his game is required. Maybe we will see how it works in the first winter medal being played Sunday at Victoria Golf Club.

★ ★ ★

There will be a new champion at Uplands Golf Club this year. Contesting the final over 36 holes on Sunday are Danny MacLean and Bill Wakeham.

Danny, who learned his game at Uplands, returned here only a year ago after being out of town with his company for a number of years. A strongly-built player, he knocked out Al Reside by two holes in last week's semi-final.

His rival is one of Canada's brighiest golfing hopes. He was winner of the Victoria, B.C. and Canadian junior championships last year and has some noted performances behind him this season. He earned his victory in the semi-final against Gordon Pellow when his opponent made a slow start by bogeying the first three holes, a handicap from which Pellow never recovered.

New holders of the senior buttons are Ted Williams and T. Colbeck of Uplands. Playing at Oak Bay Friday they beat George Bell and Hugh Smith, also of Uplands by 3 and 1.

Next challengers are W. G. Moore and J. D. Ferguson, Uplands. They are due to tee off this morning at Colwood.

By the way, new teams are badly needed to challenge for the senior buttons. Challengers must be more than 55 years and have an accredited club handicap. Players may choose their own partners.

Aanyone interested should call Jack Bett, Sr., EVergreen 3-2998, who will take the entry.

Low River Levels Threat to Salmon

DUNCAN—One of the driest summers on record is creating a threat to the upstream escapement of spring and coho salmon from Cowichan Bay to the Cowichan River.

The federal fisheries department has closed off part of Cowichan Bay from sport fishing to protect the salmon gathering at the river mouth waiting to escape upstream. The value of the weir built at Cowichan Lake, 26 miles upstream from the bay, was effectively demonstrated last year, when release of water from the lake allowed sufficient rise in the river level to permit the fish to go upstream to spawn.

This year's closure is the third in the last few years. The first closure of fishing at Cowichan Bay was in 1952, and the second one was last year. Excessive evaporation of water between the weir and the bay this year has reduced the effectiveness of the release of water, and it is reported there is some agitation now for a higher weir to allow greater storage of water at Cowichan Lake for just such emergencies.

The closed area of Cowichan Bay extends easterly to a boundary on a line drawn from Skinner Bluff on Mount Tzouhalem to the south end of the CNR deep-sea loading dock. A fisheries patrol vessel is constantly on duty on the boundary.

Police Get Big Payoff

LONDON (AP) — Fifteen policemen have hit the jackpot with a world record football pool win expected to be worth nearly $700,000. And the take isn't taxable — or raidable.

The police station syndicate has filled in its pool coupon according to the same formula for seven years. This is their first win.

Each week the syndicate—15 policemen and three civilians working with them at the east coast vacation resort of Margate—gamble 25 shillings on forecasting the results of Britain's football matches. Bettors have to pick eight tie games for a top score.

Monday night a pool representative called on the happy cops to tell them of their success. Their win would be in the region of £250,000, he said.

Rangers Meet Hawks To Open NHL Season

New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks meet at Chicago tonight as the National Hockey League opens its 42nd season—one that president Clarence Campbell feels will produce better balance in competition.

"There is no doubt that at least five teams will be better balanced and there is every indication of good public response," Campbell said yesterday.

Campbell, along with most observers, concedes that Montreal Canadiens, with five of last year's all-stars on the club, are going to be tough to stop in their bid for a fourth straight Stanley Cup. Canadiens host Boston tomorrow night, and all clubs see action Saturday.

"Three clubs definitely are going to go with younger material—New York, Toronto and Detroit," Campbell stated. "They may take time to shake down."

Baseball Discredited by Its Handling of Williams

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK — Striking a baseball with a bat for an average of .406 doesn't grant Ted Williams the privilege of bumhood. But it has and the sport, discredited by recent events, stands disgraced.

Fifty dollars is a pittance to a man earning $125,000 a year, which is what Boston Red Sox pay Williams. That's the amount Will Harridge, the president of the American League, fined Williams for flinging the bat that struck a woman sitting in a box at a game in Fenway Park. It doesn't mitigate the circumstances that the spectator is the housekeeper for Joe Cronin, the general manager of the Red Sox, and entered the park on a pass.

This was an act by a player who has repeatedly demonstrated that he is more important than the government of baseball. But then so is anyone who challenges that authority of the cowering likes of Harridge. Baseball, as Kenesaw Mountain Landis ran it with dignity and a fierce grace, was buried with the first commissioner.

It would be natural to assume that Ford Frick would interfere and prove that the business he is supposed to supervise is operated with more principles than an alley crap game. But no one who is familiar with his subservience in similar circumstances would anticipate any demonstration of authority.

Once all baseball was the concern of the commissioner but now he is merely a clerical worker who is expected to be neutral in significant matters. Baseball used to be the best-regulated game in this country but lately it has embraced the ethics of the fight racket.

There are some who still regard Williams with pity. There was a time when I forgave his rages but he has betrayed all those who defended him. He has rejected the responsibility of his eminence in the sport. Such as Joe DiMaggio, Stan Musial and Bob Feller were subjected to the same pressures. They declined the immunity of greatness which Williams has used to intimidate all those who will submit to his cruel arrogance.

There is no doubt that he is the greatest batter of his generation but he is a soloist. There has never been a season when he appeared to realize that his game is played nine men to a side. It is as if the eight men on his team were stooges who killed time until he came up to bat.

This is the third time he has been fined for throwing a bat. It is fortunate that he has not gravely injured a spectator before this. Naturally, Williams didn't intend to harm Mrs. Gladys Heffernan but the bat lacerated her face. It could have killed her, and then what would the fine have been?

Would it be a league matter with the commissioner of baseball dispatching a night-letter of condolences to the bereaved family? It is the third time Williams has been lightly reprimanded for such deportment. Previous fines didn't impress him. Why should a $50 levy reform him? By this trivial retaliation, Harridge should have convinced Williams that his vicious angers entertain those who are his magistrates. There is no reason for Williams to alter his ways. If Harridge doesn't object, why should Williams?

There are some who condone Williams' vulgar and dangerous hysteria because he is dedicated to raising funds in the interests of cancerous children. He should be honored for this unselfishness. But it has nothing to do with his spiteful behavior on the field. Not even Dr. Salk is given the right to violate the common rules of decency by which men must live with their kind. I still can praise Williams for his compassion and charity but I can't give him a pass for the ugly disposition he refuses to restrict.

He has demeaned himself by profanely haranguing baseball reporters who are not his physical equals. It is a trait of his nature to bull anyone he can. Such an attitude has justly made him unpopular with ballplayers who have been associated with him any length of time.

The majority considers Williams a surly and nastily independent man who is in business for himself. Only those kids who flatter him by soliciting his advice on batting can tolerate him. You must agree with Williams or he describes you as an enemy.

Since baseball began, Williams is the only player ever chastised by a ball club for making obscene gestures. He publicly turned his vileness on the multitude that supports him and Tom Yawkey, who owns the Red Sox, announced he would deduct $5,000 from Williams' salary but gossip claims the sum was never taken out.

It is the excuse of Williams' partisans that disgust with himself provoked him into throwing the bat that struck the old lady. I agree with Williams' opinion of himself. That's why I write this column.

Flyers Again Prairie Choices But Quakers May Argue Point

Rating hockey clubs on pre-season lineups is a risky business, but on what is known to date it would seem that Saskatoon Quakers are most likely to challenge the Edmonton Flyers, who are again favored, in the eastern division of the Western Hockey League.

The Quakers, backed this season by the Board of Trade, appear as if they may succeed in [illegible] The Board of Trade has already sold more than 1,200 season tickets and hopes to reach the goal of 2,000, and the Quakers will play in an improved setting, $75,000 having been spent to improve the civic-owned arena.

Unlike the other three Eastern Division clubs, the Quakers will lean heavily on experienced talent although they, too, have some promising youngsters.

Lucien Dechene will be in goal and the veteran fat man looks as good as ever. There should be nothing wrong with his defence, which will have Ralph Keller, a young veteran of three professional seasons, as the kingpin. Veterans Bill Burega, Sandy Hucul, Bill Bucyk, Howie Milford and Gary Blaine, a converted forward, are also available.

McLEOD BOOSTS HOPES

Up front the Quakers have been tremendously helped by the acquisition of Jackie McLeod, all-star winger who will be assistant-coach for Frank Boucher. Les Lilley, with Buffalo last season, and Elliott Chorley, with Vancouver last season, round out a strong starboard brigade.

For left-wing, the Quakers will choose between holdover Bob Kabel, sophomore Bob Robinson, with Vancouver last season, rookie Dave Balon and Marv Kuryluk, obtained from Calgary.

Holdovers Reg Primeau and Lyle Willey, rookie Gordon Labossiere and Aggie Kukolowicz, with Seattle last season, are centremen in camp.

The Quakers believe they are weakest at centre, which indicates that they deserve rating as contenders.

Edmonton Flyers will have a good number of rookies but they also have some standout experienced material and their youngsters are the best in the Detroit farm system.

SOLID NUCLEUS

Goalkeeper Dennis Riggin, defencemen Frank Roggeveen, Hugh Coflin and Bud McPherson and forwards Metro Prystai, Gerry Melnyk, Chuck Holmes, Gene Achtymichuk and Ray Kinasewich give the Flyers a solid core of experience.

Their rookies include defenceman Rocky Amadio and forwards Brian Smith and Murray Oliver from the Hamilton juniors, defenceman Lou Marfrom Cincinnati of the International Hockey League, forward Myron Stankiewicz from Indianapolis of the IHL and forward Ed Diachuk, who was with Penticton last season. All are exceptional prospects and the Flyers should be the team to beat.

Stampeders will rely heavily on Sid Finney and Ed Dorohoy, two of the best centremen in minor professional hockey, and Fred Hucul, a standout defenceman. Others in camp with experience are Chuck and Dusty Blair, defenceman Gordon Hudson and sophomore winger Wayne Hicks. In goal will be Roy Edwards, a promising youngster. Balance of the Stampeder roster is mostly made up of youngsters just out of junior ranks.

Warriors are in a similar fix. Goalkeeper Ray Mikulan, defencemen Bill Folk and Danny Summers and forwards Red Johansen, Dick Lamoureux, Pete Kapusta, Bill Mosienko, Barry Ross and Steve Witiuk comprise the experienced talent on hand. The Warriors will depend on youngsters, which they own themselves, to complete their line-up.

Record September Boosts Total Entry to 14,811

September was the best salmon-fishing month of the year on Vancouver Island, a fact borne out by entries made in the Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest.

Although the number of visiting angler is sharply reduced and fishing becomes mainly a weekend activity after Labor Day, the number of entries for September totalled 4,595. By comparison, 4,251 fish were entered in the contest in August and 3,259 in July. Last year, when the total entry for the contest was an amazing 16,399 fish, only 2,867 were entered in September.

The September spurt boosted the total entries in the contest to 14,811 as of the end of last month. The contest closes on October 15 and with October entries coming in steadily, the final figure this year should be in the neighborhood of 16,000.

NO. 252—HUNDREDTH YEAR — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1958 — SECOND NEWS SECTION

Better Than None? —Not Half a Saw

Thieves who stole some machinery overnight Monday have half a radial saw which is no use to them—and the owner is left with the other half which is useless to him the way it is.

Clifford C. Clarke, 315 Henry, yesterday appealed for the return of the missing machinery which, he says, is no use without the other half in his possession.

And he needs the saw for his business.

"I can't afford to buy another," said Mr. Clarke "and even if I could I'd have to send to the U.S. for parts which would hold up my work for weeks."

Is Canadian Coffee Really Brewed Too Weak?

Sure it's too weak, says Harold Caton, Mr. Mullard's companion in a coffee break, as he gives it a bit more body by dunking a doughnut. Definitely, he says, his coffee is served stronger at home than in restaurants.

Coffee too weak? Of course not, says Alan Mullard, because if it was served too pasale and watery as claimed by a coffee expert at a Victoria convention, people wouldn't drink so much of it.—(Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

Weak or strong, coffee's a good drink, judging by attitude of Arlene Anderson. Soon as she had posed for photograph with customers looking on, what did she do? Braced herself with coffee she had poured.

Coffee expert who started debate, Charles G. Lindsay, right, likes tea too, it it's good tea, though he favors coffee. Here he tries tea as Keith Porter, chairman of Tea Council of Canada samples coffee. Tea was subject of Canadian Tea and Coffee Association's discussions yesterday.

Salgo's Salvo:

Critics Painters Of Barns

* * *

ANDRES SALGO
"... strangely enough"

First-They Should Get Reputations

Battle of the painters now being waged in Victoria went into another round yesterday.

Visiting artist Andres Salgo, whose Mexican paintings were described by a group of Victoria artists as "incompetent" after he had lambasted surreal ist art, said yesterday he was sorry about the "unpleasant episode."

Father the Hungarian-born Salgo had called surrealism house painting.

Yesterday after regretting the "unpleasantness," he fired another salvo.

"WITH REGRET"

"I have seen the work of some of my critics," he said. I regret with regret repeat. it is house painting or, perhaps better, barn painting."

"May I suggest my critics go out and get themselves a reputation," he suggested. "I have heard of none of the critics and strangely enough neither can I find they enjoy reputations even here in Victoria."

"When they have reputations I will be glad to debate art with them in Victoria, in Mexico City or anywhere else."

DIDN'T LIKE WORK

The visiting artist's show was "protested" in a letter to the Mexican consulate in Vancouver by Herbert Siebner and six other Victorians. They complained of the quality of his painting and of a lecture he gave here.

Executive of the art gallery said the exhibition would remain on display until Sunday, the scheduled closing day.

George May Try For Seat

James A. A. George last night said he was giving serious consideration to seeking the provincial Conservative nomination in Oak Bay.

Matthew C. B. Stobo, who had been mentioned as a likely candidate for the Conservatives, said last night he had been asked but his answer will be "definitely no."

Justin Harbord, who was defeated in his last bid will almost certainly seek the nomination.

SUZANNE BUTTREY

* * *

Seen In Passing

Suzanne Buttrey, looking for a job as a lab technician for the city, produced credentials which her mother, Mrs. Muriel Buttrey, had signed as "Leslee," at 1619 on next year and this figure is correct. A dog named Freddy and a budget now called Josephine passing has to be done twice, I guess, to be fair, share the are filling to campaign chairman Justin Harbord.

SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE

There should be a substantial increase over the $222,000 raised last year but a mere increase would not be enough, he said.

"Not only does this year's goal have to be reached because so many needy people are dependent upon the Chest, but also because other charitable agencies now outside the Chest won't consider coming in if the Chest can't support the ones it now has," he said.

OTHER AGENCIES

"We want the backing of the public as a sign that they want this. And, if they see that we meet and pass our goal this winter, we will try to see that the other agencies come in with us," Mr. Harbord said.

A lot of people had invited ideas as to what is expected of them, he said. There had been a "magnificent response" from average working men who donated a day's pay.

Doorbell-Ringers Needed by Chest

Canvassers are needed for the Community Chest's residential campaign which starts Oct. 15, Alan Macfarlane, co-chairman of the residential division, said last night.

"We urgently require canvassers for Esquimalt, Cloverdale, Gorge-Vic-Isa Bay and certain hotels and apartment buildings in the city," said Mr. Macfarlane.

PHONE OFFICE

He asked volunteers to telephone the Chest office at EV 3-4166.

The $407,000 goal set for this year's Community Chest drive is the maximum amount the Chest's 20 agencies can operate on next year and this figure is correct. As A dog named Freddy and will be reached even if the canvassing has to be done twice, are filling to campaign chairman Justin Harbord.

Twin Cities Merger Urged by Engineers

FORT ALBERNI — The west coast "Twin Cities of Alberni and Port Alberni may become one if the advice of a firm of projection engineers is needed.

In a report to Port Alberni council last night of J. B. Ward and Associates said: "The separation of the cities is basically maintained for tax purposes as an offset there is efficient co-operation exists."

It recommended an economic and technical study of annexation pending on taxation ...ues are only temporarily as differences between the two future industrial development is expected to take place within Alberni city limits rather than Port Alberni due to land availability."

In the projection survey report, population of the Twin Cities in 1976 is forecast at a maximum of 7,606 in Alberni and 15,850 in Port Alberni. By 1976 the cities are expected to require 187 classrooms for the anticipated 5,664 pupils.

Recommended were various projects to serve the population of the future community and advisors planning commission and zoning bylaws with uniform regulations common to both cities were advised.

The proposed zoning bylaws make provision for off-street parking and Dr. Lyle G. Troxy in his summary of recommendations stated that in Port Alberni parking meters are to be reinstalled and the surplus revenue set aside for long-term acquisition of off-street public parking facilities.

It was suggested that one of the first duties of planning boards should be to investigate the possibility of establishing a second road connection between the two cities.

In the picture of the future, the Albernis will be producing 600,000 tons of pulp and paper and manufacturing industries will be producing $109,961,967 worth of goods fr shipment in 1976 with 4,150 persons employed in the industries.

DUNCAN — A contract for construction of sidewalks and driveway entrances on several city streets was awarded to W. O. Brown, Duncan, with a bid of $6,609, lowest of five tenders. Highest bid was $7,582.67.

The sidewalks will be constructed before Nov. 15 on the following streets: Beech Avenue between Trunk Road and Marchmont, Charlotte Street between Rundock and Dicks Alley, Coronation Avenue between Festubert and St. Julian; and on Festubert Street between Coronation and Trunk Road.

Council passed some enabling bylaws to permit the contract for the construction of the side walks to be awarded. The bylaws were passed following applause from citizens for early work construction. In addition to the sidewalks to be constructed under contract, city council also authorized construction of sidewalks on both sides of Chesterfield Avenue, which works from recently to the Alex Aitken Elementary School to end on North Cowichan municipality.

NANAIMO — Nanaimo's "fold sex with and what it used to be" a curling to ...y abdomen L. J. Pape and George Bryce bers last south of New Westminster.

Today thought the federal government should approve completion of the sub it began in 1951 and failed to finish.

Ald. Bryce said if erosion at the base of the wall was allowed to continue it would be like "pouring money down the hole."

Resumption of work on the sea wall along Newcastle Avenue would provide much needed employment in Nanaimo.

DUNCAN — Council at Monday's meeting approved the awarding of tenders for the placing of group insurance on all permanent city employees. The insurance will be on a joint contributory basis between the city and its employees who will be covered by the new insurance.

The finance committee of council will bring in a report on the suggestion that business licences be increased to pay part of the cost of improving street lighting in the downtown business section.

PORT ALBERNI — Whether or not the new municipal building will be completed before the date tentatively set for the official opening is still not known.

According to Ald. Norman Odgers the contractors are certain it will be finished by Nov. 5 while the architects "wouldn't promise."

"I don't think it will," Ald. Odgers said.

He said that the contractors have given a written undertaking to correct "a few discrepancies" in the construction.

Members decided at a meeting Monday such policies should be considered as the occasion arises "at a meeting of the chamber as a whole, either in general or special session."

Forest Service reforestation crews are rushing to complete their fall planting projects at four points on Vancouver Island before the winter cold brings planting to a halt.

Altogether some 12,600 acres of crown and private lands are included in the Island program and over 2,000,000 two-year-old seedlings for seedlings will be required to complete the job. These seedlings are produced by the Forest Service's three coastal nurseries at Duncan, Campbell River and Green Timbers just south of New Westminster.

On the Island itself a Forest Service crew is working under contract with Alaska Pine and Cellulose Ltd. to plant 1,200 acres of burned-over forest land west of Jordan River on the west coast. A 30-man crew is planting some 1,000 acres of Crown land in the Ash River area and another crew is engaged on 200 acres of Crown land near Elk River.

An experimental area of 200 acres is being planted along the Robertson River Valley near Cowichan Lake.

By the end of 1957, Forest Service crews had planted 86,000,000 seedlings on 105,000 acres of burned-over Crown land on the coast and in the Interior of the province. In addition, 29,000,000 seedlings from Forest Service nurseries have been supplied, at no cost, for planting projects carried out by private logging companies.

NANAIMO — An Alberni man received two fines for the price of one yesterday.

After pleading guilty to passing on a double solid line, Walter Malm admitted that he didn't have a driver's licence.

Court News Limit 'Useful'—Bonner

Cautious approval to a proposal to limit news coverage of preliminary court hearings was given yesterday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

"On the whole I think it would be useful having in mind the selection of a jury at a later time," Mr. Bonner said. "In many instances a prospective juror is exposed to material in the press which is later not admitted to higher court."

He said some information from a preliminary hearing could prejudice the case for the accused or the Crown.

He was commenting on a report that Justice Minister Fulton is considering a national legal body's requests that news reports should not include any reference to admissions, statements or confessions an accused person might make at a preliminary hearing of a charge against him.

The question "should be very carefully and cautiously considered," Mr. Bonner told The Daily Colonist.

He said it would not be contrary to liberty of speech or reporting and would lead to more objective treatment in a higher court.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

COVER-UP FOR A SAGGING CHIN. A loyal reader asks: Is there any kind of make-up that would render my sagging chin less noticeable? I heard that rouging the underside would turn the trick. I tried it and looked as droopy after as before.

Ms. reply: The solution is not found in rouge. It highlights rather than shadows the problem. What you should use is powder base, two shades, one to match your skin tone and the other several degrees darker. Some creamy bases are actually packaged for the purpose in a compact with a half-and-half arrangement of complementary dark and light shades.

But whether you use a cream or lotion base, the application method is the same: smooth the matching shade on the entire face and throat, then shadow the jaw, underside of chin and throat with the darker shade.

Once you get the knack, this bit of trickery works wonders. Covers up like a coverlet.

CREPEY THROAT AND CHIN

To firm and uplift sagging facial muscles and flesh, use my four-way method. It works wonders through corrective exercise, posture, skin care and make-up. Procedures are detailed in the leaflet, "Banish Crepey Throat and Chin." For your copy, write me in care of your newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin and a large self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Just How Far Should Child Walk to School?

Plaques in the Mail

By M. V. CHESNUT, FIRS

At our house we greet the mail carrier on his rounds with somewhat mixed emotions. There is usually quite a stack of letters from readers and these I am very glad to get even though it may mean sitting up into the small hours to answer them.

These letters keep me in close touch with the gardening needs of my readers. I have a pretty good idea after reading a batch of mail, what particular pests or blights are on the rise in our district, even though I may not have ranged them in my own garden, and the enquiries regarding new or rare plants for sale in our district help me on the Rhode Island tomato the Copenhagen Bluebell and the Centennial Zinnias are warming the cockles of my heart. These reports will be invaluable when the time comes to select seeds for next year's distribution.

* * *

Opening these packages I feel like Pandora releasing the horde of woeful troubles upon the world from her mystical box for they contain just about every bug blight mite, fungus and virus known to mankind.

A recent mail as a fair sample yielded a potato infected with a scab, a rose shoot literally crawling with green aphis, some plum twigs showing the characteristic lesions of Black Knot, and some raspberry foliage containing a healthy and thriving colony of spider mites.

* * *

I have learned the hard way to handle these packages in much the same way as a doctor might handle a case of bubonic plague, otherwise we wouldn't have a healthy houseplant left in the whole house. Wearing one of my wife's kitchen smocks a charming [illegible] in my garden I open the envelopes and boxes a safe distance from any of our plants and the wrappings are immediately consigned to the fire place.

The contents are examined with a magnifying glass under a strong light with as little handling as possible and as soon as a diagnosis is completed they too go into the flames. The envelope, if its load of infection is tossed in to the washing machine then I scrub my hands with actidil soap before venturing into the upper parts of the house.

This past few weeks I have had quite a spate of patrick's containing gladiolus foliage showing the silvery grey patches caused by an infestation of thrips. This has evidently been a bad thrip year and it behooves us to take special precautions in storing the corms to make sure that none of them spends a cozy winter on our bulbs.

The old method of killing thrips on glad bulbs was to seal up the bulbs in bags with a handful of moth crystals for a week or so. It has been found, though that this technique has a somewhat depressing effect on the vigor of the bulb and flowering can be delayed by several weeks in the year following such treatment.

* * *

I prefer [illegible] to seeing the stored bulbs a good whiff of all-purpose garden dust once when the bulbs are lifted and again after curing and cleaning before placing them in cool storage.

I prefer Rose Dust for this job as most of the garden dusts formulated especially for rose use contain Malathion and DDT both of which are excellent thripicides. In addition a good rose dust will have by here Captan as one of its ingredients. This fungicide gives good control over various rot diseases which could affect the bulbs in storage and seems to invigorate the plants in much the same way as if bulbs had had a pat of butter into strawberries at supper.

Louis XIV Would Feel at Home

Versailles Restored to Glory

By BERNARD KAPLAN

VERSAILLES (NANA) — For the first time in nearly two centuries that famous stickler for elegance Louis XIV would feel at home now if he returned to spend a night at his old family home at Versailles.

On Oct. 11 official ceremonies will mark the restoration of the world's most renowned palace to a reception for five kings.

The latest work of restoring the huge edifice which once housed more than 10,000 courtiers began five years ago and has run up a bill of 5,000,000 francs. A large portion of the money came from American well wishers and the Rockefeller Foundation.

In some offices the [illegible] would find Versailles considerably more comfortable than it was in his day. Much of the Palace has been equipped with central heating and modern plumbing has been installed. Luxuries in all, he'd [illegible] never heard of either.

Maurice Jaqui, chief architect of France's historical monuments commission and coordinator of the Versailles project, explained that temperature and humidity will be automatically regulated to protect the 8,000 paintings and numerous other works of art.

All of this is a far cry from the neglected decrepitude to which the palace and its outlying buildings such as Hameau Farm where Marie Antoinette played at being a [illegible] were allowed to sink and the [illegible] crumble.

In fact it was [illegible] when the royal family fled [illegible] it was pitch dark. Slingshot Threatens Boy's Sight

CALGARY (CP)—An 11-year-old boy will know today whether he will lose an eye after being hit with a fence-wire staple during a football game Saturday.

Billy Browne's eye was damaged when hit by a staple fired from a slingshot into a crowd of school safety patrol members at-

Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

A 14-year-old boy has admitted he fired the staples. He has been turned over to the Children's Aid.

Doctors said a blood clot has formed in the eye and it won't be known until today whether the sight will be lost.

He wears blue jeans and rubber-soled shoes and sings rock 'n' roll in their stately country home of Ragley Hall.

The new butler is 17-year-old Howard Davis, recently recruited from a rock 'n' roll club. He says: "I get a kick out of being a personal helper to such a good, sporting boss."

'Hold to Death' Monty Told 8th

NEW YORK (CP) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery in his first instalment of his memoirs published Tuesday in Life magazine, says the first thing he did on assuming command of the 8th Army was to cancel previous orders for withdrawal.

Monty says that when he [illegible] to take [illegible] command [illegible] Gen. Sir [illegible] man Afrika Corps march toward Cairo, "the sight that met me was enough to lower anyone's morale."

AIR OF UNCERTAINTY

"There was an air of uncertainty about everything.

"The Middle East commander-in-chief, General Sir Claude Auchinleck had ordered that the 8th Army 'must not be destroyed in battle.'"

Montgomery says he decided [illegible] there would be no retreat. "We would fight on the ground we now held and if we couldn't stay there alive we would stay there dead."

ROMMEL ROUTED

Field Marshal Rommel's forces were routed at El Alamein and relentlessly pursued across 2,000 miles of desert. Three months later Montgomery's troops entered Tripoli.

Atom Attempt

Blast Oil Loose

OTTAWA (CP)—An Alberta oil company has interested the federal mines department in a plan to set off an underground nuclear explosion intended to shake loose the billions of barrels of oil in the province's oil sands, it was learned Tuesday.

A source well informed on the idea told The Canadian Press that if all the details still under discussion and consideration finally fit together, the blast might take place within two years.

The nuclear device would be provided by the United States government through the parent American company of the Alberta firm.

The source said there is good reason to believe that the terrific heat and pressure that a nuclear explosion would create under the oil sands would separate the oil from the sands.

The proposal was presented to the mines department last spring by the Richfield Oil Corporation, a major exploration firm with headquarters in Calgary. Richfield holds an exploration permit for about 50,000 acres of the sands, in Northern Alberta's Athabaska area.

The idea is that an underground nuclear blast would melt the sand and leave only oil in the crater that remained.

The source said a site for the proposed experiment has already been chosen, well away from any inhabited area, even though the blast would be so arranged that there would be no sign of it on the surface.

Nothing but the Best

West Coast should enjoy nothing but the best weather for the next three weeks, says the U.S. weather bureau forecast. Central Canada will vary from average to cold. Rain will be heavy in the East, light in the West.

Old Name, Old Con Game

Sucker Didn't Bite

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 74-year-old railroader told in police court here of being offered a slice of an $82,000 horse racing kitty by a stranger he met at the railroad station. For a time, he was almost convinced.

W. R. Webb, a former Brandon alderman was testifying at the preliminary hearing of a conspiracy charge against Sidney Richmond of Vancouver.

Webb said a man he met at the CPR station when he arrived here on vacation Sept. 3 offered to help him put his bag in a locker.

Then he told him racing stories and of feats of a horse named Joe.

He was told of a "Judge Baker" of Saskatoon, who was said to have made a fortune overnight because he had the right connection.

Detective Archie Plummer testified he had heard the "Judge Baker" story at least 50 times in other cases.

Webb said he was then told of a race kitty that grew from $500 to $82,000. The witness said he was to get 30 per cent of the "sure" $82,000, but $20,000 was needed to establish credit and he was asked to put up $2,000.

He left for Brandon to pick up the $2,000 and that was the first time he had been left alone to think. He wondered at some of the details of the deal.

The court was told that Webb came back to Vancouver on police instructions and was met by the accused. They were immediately joined by city police men.

Victoria Route, Too

PWA Now Wants Feeder Takeover

VANCOUVER—Pacific Western Airlines intends to apply for takeover of western Canada feeder services from Trans-Canada and Canadian Pacific airlines, including the Victoria TCA run.

Russ Baker, PWA president, Monday indicated this was why his firm withdrew its application for a cross-Canada carrier service at an Air Transport Board hearing here.

He said the company intended, instead, to apply for a licence to operate all the western feeder services.

Mr. Baker indicated PWA bases its case on findings of Stephen Wheatcroft, British air lines expert, who conducted a survey for the federal government.

Wheatcroft, he said, found it would put air lines on a "healthier footing" if TCA were relieved of its short haul and feeder service obligations. The report recommended subsidized local airlines conduct these services.

Included in the category of feeder or local lines are the Vancouver-Victoria TCA run, the Vancouver-Penticton-Calgary CPA run, the Vancouver-Kamloops-Prince George CPA run, the Calgary-Edmonton TCA run and possibly CPA's Edmonton-Yellowknife service.

Mr. Baker said PWA hopes to make profits on the feeder runs, without subsidies, by standardizing equipment and localizing service.

CPA now is sole applicant for a continental route. TCA counsel J. G. Edison told the hearing his firm couldn't continue to make a profit under competition.

Studebaker-Packard Shows Small Cars

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Studebaker-Packard's 1959 series of smaller automobiles is now on display.

The Lark series is marked by simplicity of design. Its front end is a single stamping. It has bolt-on fenders to simplify repairs. Its rear lights are interchangeable; so, too, are the large single headlights.

President Harold E. Churchill said he is convinced the industry is just entering a broadening market for smaller cars.

Saskatchewan Law

Court Upholds Drunk Testing

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada Tuesday upheld Saskatchewan legislation requiring suspected drunken drivers to undergo a breath test or face suspension of their drivers' permits.

The court's five-to-three judgment follows a ruling of the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal which said earlier this year that the legislation enacted in 1957 was constitutionally valid.

The Supreme Court, however, was unanimous in ruling that any evidence taken under the Saskatchewan legislation as a result of a breath test can be introduced in evidence at a trial for drunken or impaired driving under the Criminal Code.

NOT AMOUNT

The issue before the court was not concerned with the amount of alcohol required to show drunkness.

The Saskatchewan court's judgment was handed down on a reference by the provincial government for a constitutional opinion on the legislation. The provincial court, while it found the act constitutional, ruled that evidence taken under it would not be introduced in cases of drunken or impaired driving.

The federal justice department intervened in the case, claiming the legislation was outside the powers of the provincial legislature on grounds that it interfered with the Criminal Code.

The Saskatchewan breath analysis legislation authorizes the provincial highway traffic board to suspend a motorist's driving permit for up to 90 days if the motorist, when suspected of drunkenness, refuses to give a sample of his breath for testing.

DOESN'T CONFLICT

Mr. Justice Fauteux wrote in his reasons for judgment that under the Criminal Code no one can be forced to submit to a breath test.

However, this provision did not interfere with "the right of a provincial legislature to create, for genuine provincial purposes, a legal obligation to give a sample."

Grain Buying By B.C. Man Ruled Illegal

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian wheat board's wide powers as the sole marketing agency for Prairie wheat, oats and barley were upheld Tuesday by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The court's unanimous ruling, maintaining the constitutional validity of the Canadian Wheat Board Act, in effect ruled illegal a British Columbia farmer's attempt to ship feed grain across the Prairies without a board permit.

Stephen Francis Murphy of Mission, B.C., who operates large poultry farms there and in Princeton, B.C., sought to bypass the board by buying feed directly from Prairie farmers and shipping it to his farms.

YOU MAY HAVE WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms or Round-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of these ugly pests, they must be killed in the intestines where they live and multiply. And clinical tests have proved that JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE kills both Pin-Worms and Round-Worms quickly and easily. Then they are expelled from the system in a normal manner and you are free of them.

JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE has a pleasant, fruity taste. Children love it—take it without fuss or fret.

Remember, Pin-Worms and Round-Worms are highly contagious and can spread through the whole family.

So, at the first sign of worms, be sure to ask your druggist for JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE.

Apologizes to Bennett

Sorry, We Goofed, Province Admits

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province has apologized to Premier Bennett for a story it published last week about his debt-reduction plans.

"This newspaper eats crow and frankly admits an error," The Province says. "As a straight forward publication that believes in fair play, we also owe Premier Bennett an apology, which we give."

The original story, written by Gordon McCallum, the newspaper's Victoria correspondent, said the Social Credit premier intended to transfer $28,000,000 from B.C.'s direct debt to the government-owned B.C. power commission to make it a contingent liability and permit him to announce that B.C. was free of direct debt.

Mr. Bennett denied the story last Tuesday as he was leaving on the inaugural trip of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to the Peace River country. He was said to have told The Province and McCallum he would sue them for $1,000,000.

"Our Victoria correspondent, . . . now has rechecked the story and finds that he had not obtained accurate information," The Province says.

"We find in fact that the item now amounting to $28,000,000 has been deducted from direct debt over the years beginning with the Hart administration (a Liberal-Conservative coalition) in 1946. The power commission has been servicing this debt which has never been included in the direct debt of British Columbia.

"Our original story was not published mischievously or maliciously. We just goofed."
